Course Description

Where can I go? What can I do there? What can I expect? What do I need to know? The answers to these questions, often asked of travel professionals, will be explored in a series of four courses in the Tourism and Travel Program. Emphasis will be placed on the sales and marketing of the uniqueness of various destinations and how each might appeal to a variety of consumer types. The destination geography, culture, and attractions will combine to form a focus for these courses. In this first of four courses, the students will examine in depth the top destinations in North America, specifically Canada and the United States.

Prerequisites: None.

Corequisites: None.

Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Develop an understanding of the motivations for various types of travel and traveller.
2. Identify and describe the significant geographical features, physical, and human, that impact tourism and the world around us.
3. Identify the precise geographic location of major tourist destinations (countries, regions and cities) in North America.
4. Describe significant destination sites and activities, developing a base knowledge of what clients can expect from the major destinations.
5. Access various resources including electronic and print, in order to meet clients' specific requests for destination information.
